

classification

the act of sorting things into groups or classes

compartment

a separate division or section

engulfs

swallows up or covers completely flanked

to be found at the side of something

maneuvering

moving or managing skillfully or cleverly obscure

to hide; to make hard to see or understand species

a group of related living things with very similar characteristics

submerged

underwater or covered with liquid; beneath the surface